OUR STANDARD:

MacLean Power Systems prohibits employees from engaging in human trafficking-related activities

1. PURPOSE & SCOPE

MacLean Power Systems prohibits all Company's officers, directors, employees, agents and third parties acting on MacLean Power Systems behalf from engaging in human trafficking-related activities. This policy applies to all MacLean Power Systems officers, directors, employees, agents and third parties acting on MacLean Power Systems behalf.

2. POLICY

A. General

MacLean Power Systems strictly prohibits employees, subcontractors, subcontractor employees, and agents from engaging in human trafficking-related activities. These activities include engaging in sex trafficking, procuring commercial sex acts (even if this practice is legal in the jurisdiction where it transpires), using force, fraud, or coercion to subject a person to involuntary servitude, or obtaining labor from a person by threats of serious harm to that person or another person, among others.

MacLean Power Systems also prohibits employees, subcontractors, subcontractor employees, and agents from engaging in practices relating to trafficking in persons, including:

- Destroying or otherwise denying access to an employee's identity or immigration documents;
- Using misleading or fraudulent practices to recruit employees, such as failing to disclose key terms and conditions of employment;
- Using recruiters that do not comply with local labor laws;
- Charging employees recruitment fees;
- Failing to provide return transportation to certain employees who are brought to a country for purposes of working on a U.S. Government contract;
- Providing housing that fails to meet host country standards; and
- Failing to provide an employment contract or work document where required by law.

MacLean Power Systems operating companies will take appropriate disciplinary action for violations of these rules, up to and including discharge of employees, subcontractors, and agents.

MacLean Power Systems operating companies must cooperate fully with the U.S. Government or other appropriate governmental authorities in audits or investigations relating to such violations. Employees of MacLean Power Systems operating companies are required to cooperate in any internal or external investigation of suspected wrongdoing under this policy.

B. Mandatory Reporting Requirements

In all countries where local laws and regulations permit, employees having knowledge of credible information concerning actual or potential violations of this policy must report them immediately in accordance with the MacLean Power Systems Whistleblower Non-Retaliation Policy. Timeliness of reporting any suspected violation is critical as the U.S. Government has imposed an especially stringent reporting obligation when there is credible information of violations.

Per the MacLean Power Systems Whistleblower Non-Retaliation Policy, employees may report concerns to their immediate supervisor, Local Human Resources Department, the Chief Compliance Officer or any of the other contacts listed in the Company's Code of Business Conduct and Ethics (the "Code of Conduct"), including Internal Audit, Corporate Human Resources and the Compliance Department. When making a report, employees are encouraged to share as much information as possible so that appropriate action can be taken. Refer to Appendix 1 for the Ethics and Compliance Helpline phone numbers.

Any person who receives reports of possible violations under this policy must notify Corporate Compliance immediately.

Failure to report actual or potential illegal behavior or actual or potential violations of this policy may also subject employees to disciplinary action, up to and including termination of employment.

C. Whistleblower Non-Retaliation Policy

MacLean Power Systems does not tolerate retaliation or threats of retaliation against anyone who raises a concern under this policy or who assists with an internal or governmental audit or investigation. Any employee who engages in retaliation or threats of retaliation will face disciplinary action, which could include termination of employment.
